Trio Gets $400 From Tavern Keeper In Trumbull County

(By Associated Press)
YOUNGSTOWN, Feb. 24.—In a blaze of gunfire, three young bandits held up a Trumbull county, O., tavern keeper today in front of his Brookfield inn near the Pennsylvania-Ohio border and escaped with $400.

John Tescula, owner of the little casino, was accosted by the trio as he returned from a bank after drawing out the money to cash payroll checks for steel mill workers, who were paid today.

Mrs. Tescula and Raymond Yanko, a bartender, witnessed the robbery from the inn, grabbed pistols and began firing. One of the bandits turned and fired twice at Mrs. Tescula, both bullets shattering the window but missing her.

Another robber circled and came up behind Yanko, forcing him to drop his pistol.

The robbers forced Tescula into their car, drove with him a short distance and then released him. They sped west on U. S. route 62 in a green automobile bearing Pennsylvania license.

Mrs. Tescula told police she believed one of the bandits was hit in the left arm by a bullet.

GUAM PROJECT IS DEFEATED IN HOUSE BALLOT

Bloc of Democrats Join Republican Forces In Opposition

OTHER AIR BASES
RECEIVE APPROVAL

House Leaders See Vote
As One On Foreign Policy

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—New senatorial criticism of the administration's foreign policy broke out today after house rejection of the controversial Guam naval base project.

The latter was defeated, 205 to 168, when a sizable bloc of Democrats joined Republicans in opposition. During the thundering debate, foes termed the proposed harbor improvements on the far away island "a dagger at the throat of Japan."

With the Guam provision eliminated, the house yesterday quickly passed the remainder of the administration bill authorizing a $48,800,000 series of naval air bases in the Pacific, Puerto Rico and the continental United States. Only four members rose in opposition on the final vote.

Ask Clarification
Even before the bill formally was sent to the senate, several senators declared the defense program should not be debated until the government's stand on foreign affairs is clarified.

At the same time, Senators Borah (R-Idaho) and Johnson (R-Calif.) took the leadership in a bi-partisan movement to formulate a statement of foreign policy based on the principle of avoiding conflict.

House leaders, who had pleaded for approval of the $5,000,000 Guam project on the ground it did not mean fortification of the island, later interpreted the vote as primarily one on foreign policy.

Democratic Leader Rayburn said, "I guess if the Guam improvement had been recommended by the rivers and harbors committee, instead of by the naval committee, it would have gone through all right."

No Slap at Anyone
Previously Rayburn had told the house the improvement was needed for commercial seaplane routes as well as some naval operations. He reiterated the argument of Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the naval committee, that harbor improvement could not be interpreted as a slap at any nation.

Opponents contended, however, that since the island was in the midst of territory under Japanese mandate, the establishment of a seaplane base would appear to be a distinctly unfriendly act.

"If you're looking for war," said Rep. Fish (R-NY), "this is the best way to get it."

The administration's defeat on the Guam vote had its political as well as international aspects. Republicans, who had decided on their stand at a party conference, held their lines virtually intact, but about one-fourth of the Democrats broke away from their leaders.

How They Stood
The vote stood: Opposing the Guam project, 138 Republicans, 64 Democrats, 2 Progressives, 1 Farmer.

DEUTSCH RAPS
MUNICH PEACE

Fears It Is Only Step Toward Biggest War
World Has Seen

In a calm, sane and interesting manner, without effort at propaganda, Dr. Karl W. Deutsch told an audience of more than 200 persons gathered in Salem High school auditorium Thursday night how the freedom-loving, democratic peoples of Czechoslovakia, on the eve of Munich, looked down the barrel of the Nazi gun with a gas mask by their side.

Dr. Deutsch, a Sudeten German, of Prague, Czechoslovakia, was the speaker in the first of a series of lectures in the Salem Rotary club's Institute of International Understanding. His subject was "The New Order in Central Europe."

The blonde young Sudeten described the desperate hope for peace held by the smaller nations of Europe whose independence Hitler and European diplomacy threatened by the hour.

Although his voice was quiet, Dr. Deutsch painted vividly the fear, terror and injustice prevalent in Europe today.

Tells of Background
In the first of his talk he dealt with the background of Czechoslovakia, then told of the acquisition of Sudetenland by the Nazis, the Nazi drive to the east, the Munich conference and the present issue confronting democratic nations of the world.

"The issue will be," he said, "shall we live our own lives or become the implements of foreign nations, and pawns on the international chessboard of diplomacy?"

Dr. Deutsch told of his coming to the United States last year as a representative of the democratic German youth organization of Czechoslovakia, some of whose members have now been forced to become subjects of Hungary, Poland and Nazi Germany, some of whom have been imprisoned and some others shot. Others are refugees, of which there are 250,000 in the world today.

Stars of "Jezebel" and
"Boys' Town" Receive
Awards

(By Associated Press)
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 24.—"Oscars," the coveted golden awards which the great and small of Hollywood annually bestow for the most notable in motion picture achievement, joined other "Oscars" today in the homes of Bette Davis, Spencer Tracy and Frank Capra, honored by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences for the best acting and directorial accomplishments of 1938.

Miss Davis and Tracy were two-time victors and Capra was named for the third time in the 11-year history of the academy banquet.

Glamorous Setting
It was a setting in the familiarly glamorous Hollywood fashion which was provided for last night's announcement of the selections—made by all Hollywood, from the biggest producers to the unsung electricians and extras, 12,000 in all.

A giant "Oscar" decorated the entrance of the downtown (Biltmore) hotel in which the banquet was held. Lead "Oscars" to be used as paperweights were at each place as favors. On the stage was the battery of golden "Oscars" for the winners.

Miss Davis, taking the feminine acting award for her part in "Jezebel," for Warner Bros., said credit was "due entirely" to the direction of William Wyler.

Tracy, chosen last year for "Captains Courageous," repeated this year with "Boys' Town" for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Capra, academy president, won recognition for his direction of Columbia's "You Can't Take It With You," which also was selected as the year's outstanding production.

Brennan Repeats
Another repeater was Walter Brennan, chosen as having given the screen its best male supporting role in "Kentucky" Fay. Bainter received the feminine supporting prize for her part in "Jezebel."

Shirley Temple, giggling as she handed Walt Disney a special award, forgot to mention that it was for his pioneering a new entertainment field with "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." The audience figured it out, however, because Disney's "Oscar" was in reality one big "Oscar" surrounded by seven little "Oscars."

The judge's action was taken on a motion filed by Alty Raymond Buzzard of East Liverpool.

17-Year-Old Fire
Truck Breaks Down
After Downtown Run

Firemen had a close call yesterday afternoon—too close for comfort.

While enroute through crowded downtown E. State st. at 5:20 p. m. to extinguish a blaze in an old auto, at the rear of the A. & P. super market, the firemen noticed that the truck swayed a bit.

They blamed it on the slippery pavement.

However, the firemen returned to the station and, as they backed in, the worn gear connecting the steering wheel to the front wheels sheared completely off.

The other firemen joined Chief Vincent Malloy in speculating on what really might have happened had the rod snapped while the truck lumbered through the crowded downtown district.

"It was a miracle it happened the way it did," the chief said.

The fire department was without the services of the engine today, until a new part arrives from the factory at Elmira, N. Y. The truck which broke down was purchased by the city 17 years ago.

Halifax Statement Seen
As Obvious Hint To Italians

DEFENSE ANGLE
ALSO STRESSED

Won't Act Toward Mediation Unless Both Parties
Desire It

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Feb. 24.—Great Britain has put forth one of the strongest warnings she has yet made to the dictator nations of Europe.

Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, who has been mostly on the sidelines while his close friend, Premier Chamberlain, dictated foreign policy, used this striking phrase in a statement to the house of lords last night:

"Halt! major road ahead."

Warning to Other Powers
The statement, it was felt here, was a warning to other powers not to underestimate Chamberlain's recent pledge, that in the event of war Britain would go to the defense of France.

It was interpreted also as an obvious hint to Italy that that country's thus far undefined demands upon France for colonial territory constitute Europe's major war threat.

Lord Halifax told the upper house that Britain could make no move toward mediation "unless and until both parties desire it."

"In one sense," he said, "it is a case that whatever might be the Italian-French differences they do not primarily—and I emphasize the word primarily—concern this country."

"But in another sense, they concern it immediately and closely because we have relations with France and we also are glad to have repaired our relations with Italy and are anxious to maintain them on a basis of complete cordiality as we can."

No Reservations
British-French solidarity, he said, has no reservations.

He gave assurances, however, that the understanding "does not, and has never been intended to constitute any menace of any sort to any third power."

Along with rumors Britain and France were making an 11th hour effort to achieve a truce in the Spanish war, there were strong indications that both countries would recognize Generalissimo Franco's regime as Burgos within a matter of days.

POINTS TO NEED OF HONEY BEES

O. S. U. Expert Explains Value of Bee to Orchard Pollination

The importance of the honey bee as a source for pollinating fruit blooms was stressed by Dr. W. E. Dunham, professor of agriculture of Ohio State university, in an address before members of the Columbiana County Beekeepers association at the courthouse in Lisbon last night.

Speaking to a large audience on the subject, "Pollination for Apple Orchards," Dr. Dunham pointed out:

"The honey bee is the only dependable source for pollinating fruit blooms.

"In order to have a good yield from any variety of apples, growers should have at least one colony of bees to every three acres of trees," the Ohio State professor declared, adding: "These colonies should have six frames of brood in one and one-half story hives and, with nine hours of good flying conditions, they should be sufficient to produce an abundant yield of fruit."

Dr. Dunham emphasized the importance of his statements by explaining that Columbiana county is one of the leading counties in the state in the production of apples.

Dr. Dunham also showed motion pictures on the subject of his address.

Following the talk by the Ohio State professor, the association elected the following officers: President, A. C. Smith of 315 Grant st., East Liverpool; secretary-treasurer, Harry T. Davis of 313 E. High st., Lisbon.

Smith was re-appointed bee inspector for the county following his report of inspection work last year. He revealed he had examined 303 apiaries during the summer, finding one-sixth of the colonies infested by foul brood.

MAYBE YES, MAYBE NO

Meanies who refused to whom because President Roosevelt, departing for an ocean voyage, said something about no new taxes have been confirmed in their skepticism by a strange reversal.

It turns out that the President's offhand remark caused a near-panic in the treasury department. The tax gatherers had been working like beavers figuring out schemes to pluck the taxpaying goose, believing Mr. Roosevelt meant what he said in his budget message last January. He hinted then at new taxes for armament and relief spending.

The gatherers, according to a copyrighted story by Joseph Alsop and Robert Kintner, finally arrived at the strained conclusion that the President meant there would be no new taxes on business — only taxes on individuals — and are going right ahead with their schemes. But the seed of a doubt has been planted.

Whereas the original meanies turned sour because they were afraid Mr. Roosevelt meant what he said and there really wouldn't be any new taxes to hold spending down to earth, the second wave of skepticism is caused by suspicion the President meant what he didn't say and will slap on a tax plaster at the last minute.

BOOMLETS

Like the crocuses which will pop up in a few weeks presidential possibilities are sending out feelers in the dark.

Paul McNutt, the handsome Hoosier, has broken through the crust already. Harry Hopkins is showing a sudden interest in the west, as though he had just remembered Iowa was his birthplace.

The breath of Ohioans comes short at the thought of Sen. Taft growing to presidential stature in the Washington climax, and the buckeye bourgeois in Columbus, where a governor named John is digging political postholes.

It's hard to turn on the radio without hearing Ma o' l'ikes lashing someone, Mr. Devery is prosecuting his case nicely in New York. "Dear Alben" still pulls the plug for the sake of old Kentucky, and no one has heard Franklin D. Roosevelt, the one whose last name isn't Jones, say "No" yet, either.

Even the other senator from Ohio, the one who used to vote with Sen. Buckley, then voted opposite to Mr. Buckley, and now is voting opposite to Mr. Taft, has been mentioned in a presidential connection. It's as pretty a patch of boomlets as one would find in the spring—any spring.

WHO'S AFRAID OF WHOM?

It's an interesting idea that Demaree Bess unfolds in the current Saturday Evening Post, but it doesn't hold together at the seams.

Mr. Bess says Europe—Europe in general—fears the consequences of the United States taking a high moral attitude. "Europeans are more afraid of Americans, he avers, than they are afraid of one another.

This may be so. It is not unreasonable to believe, as Mr. Bess does, that neither Europe nor the United States has anything to gain by this country's predilection for nibbling in.

The weak place in his argument is this: He assumes that if the United States will keep its nose out of Europe's affairs there will be peace abroad. He does not consider what would happen if there ceased to be peace abroad.

The result would be a mad scramble for everything which the United States possesses—chiefly its money. Everything under the sun would be done to promote a high moral attitude in the United States at some other nation's expense.

A great deal is being done right now in anticipation of this eventuality. It's the best reason Mr. Bess or anyone else can think of to pay particular attention to the desirability of an isolated position for the United States.

THE TRAP'S SET

It's hard to be sure that persons opposed to free speech for anyone but themselves should have it. They use it with the hope of being able to overthrow the government which guarantees it.

They are trying the patience of Americans sorely with their mealy-mouthed hypocrisy. They are putting the principles of free speech to an exceedingly cruel test.

It's possible they may wear out national tolerance and produce a violent reaction. That would be exactly what they want. Violence is the medium in which they thrive. The trap is set.

They would love to be driven undercover—to win a cheap martyrdom. They relish the possibility of being able to lash popular opinion into a state where extremism seems attractive.

They would like nothing better than to be arrayed against the police and civil authority. It would attract to their ranks the unruly, irresponsible elements they feed to do their dirty work for them.

When the government of New York City used hundreds of policemen last Monday night to protect a Nazi meeting from the danger of a riot, the result was a disappointment to extremists of all kinds.

It was a triumph for the principle of free assembly and free speech—a principle admirably designed to prevent subversionists from winning the popular sympathy they can't win any other way.

Col. House used to condone violations of international law by the Allies on the ground that "they are doing it in the name of democracy." And in the name of what, we would like to ask, are the New Dealers attempting to destroy State rights and seize large slices of the public domain?

For Saturday, February 25

A MEMORABLE day is heralded by the interesting and exciting influence of major planets. There may be sudden and surprising events, precipitated by whirlwind force and, while devastating and disturbing, the after-effects will be propitious. There should be much productive work, with the fruition of long-cherished hopes and wishes.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of advancement toward the fulfillment of fond hopes and wishes. Prosperous, productive and happy denouements are to follow sudden and devastating visitations of an unpredictable nature, but after the upheaval there will be rich culminations of cherished objectives. It is a most propitious time for pushing in the direction of high goals.

A child born on this day is likely to be a rather unusual individual. It may be expansive, independent in thought and action, with high ambitions and noble aspirations.

A LENTEN THOUGHT

By REV. S. TALMAGE MAGANN

President, Salem Ministerial Association

"THE LIGHT OF MEN."

Read John 1:1-3.

Our Scripture today gives another view of Jesus. "In Him was life; and the life was the light of men." Life was His specialty. He revealed the fine art of triumphant living and declared that this art is available for all. (John 10:10) "I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly."

History reveals the light of His life at the cross-roads in human progress. His light is seen in the great impulses of civilization to go forward. Many of the richest arts of civilization have grown under the strength and inspiration of His light; for example the world knows no greater paintings than the Madonnas and the Saints of the Renaissance, no greater music than that of Beethoven, Mozart, Handel and Bach.

Some of the darkest, most dangerous and puzzling problems of life grow out of man's conception of himself, his relation to others, the standard of value on human life and man's relation to God. The gospel of Jesus deals definitely with these and many other human problems. He is the answer to these and other human needs for He is "the light of men."

Prayer: Experience reveals the need of light to dispel the darkness and its accompanying danger. Lead us, O God, that we may give Christ a chance to reveal through us the true light that leads to life abundant and triumphant. Amen.

It was so wet at Santa Anita that Seabiscuit stayed in his stable. He is perhaps the only seabiscuit that isn't improved by dunking.

Under a dictatorship one man makes all the noise. In a democracy, all the people have a chance to yell.

THE HOUSE OF LORDS, AND THE HOUSE OF COMMONS!

Specialty In Medicine
Given Unique Description

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

MY FRIEND, Dr. Karl Menninger of Topeka, author of the current very popular book, "Man Against Himself," delivered himself, in the course of an address at the New York Academy of Medicine a month or so ago, of the following fable, which explains from his point of view the division of medicine into specialties:

"Six blind men sat by the gate of a great city as an elephant was led slowly past. Inspired by scientific curiosity of the highest degree, the six blind men rushed forward to palpate the great beast and to determine the nature of his being. The first man's hands fell upon the elephant's tusks. 'Ah!' said he, 'This creature is a thing of bones; they even protrude through his skin.' Later on, years having past, this man became an orthopedist.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

he thought, 'and the pathological derangements infinite in number and variety.' Nothing would do but that he should become an internist.

"One of the blind men caught hold of the elephant's tail. 'This,' he said, 'would appear to be a useless appendage. It might even be a source of trouble. Better take it off.' This blind man became a surgeon."

"But the last of the six men did not depend upon the sense of touch. Instead, he only listened. He had heard the elephant approaching, the rattle of chains and the shouts of the keepers. It may be that he heard the elephant heaving a great sigh as he trudged along. 'Where is the creature going?' he asked. No one answered. 'Where did he come from?' he asked. No one knew.

"Then this man fell into a deep reverie. What was in the elephant's mind, he wondered, in having come to this great city? Why does he submit to the indignities of our curiosity and the slavery of chains? And while he was wondering how to find out the answers to these questions the elephant was gone.

DESIGNER SEEKS
ART IN FIREPLUG

Pittsburgh Man Leads In Move to Improve the Old Stand-by

PITTSBURGH — The relentless march of progress is catching up with the old-fashioned fireplug. Already there are signs that the old standby is on the way out.

Peter Muller-Munk is leading a campaign for improvement. If he has his way, fireplugs and yes, even mailboxes, traffic signals and so on, are due for a touching up, a sort of streamlining.

Professor of industrial design at Carnegie Institute of Technology here, Muller-Munk is disgusted with the old-style fireplug. They're his pet peeve. In the first place, he contends, they are ugly, and, second, they appear particularly vulnerable to motorists with a penchant for crashing into them. Because the on-and-off valve is at the top, they seem to produce water-wasting gushers at the slightest provocation.

Now, the fireplug Muller-Munk has designed, in addition to being better looking, has the valve at the base, thus eliminating water-wasting when one is mowed down by a motorist.

The Pittsburgher refers somewhat contemptuously to the present-type mailboxes as "monstrosities." If he has his way, they'll have clean, simple lines and a dominantly blue front, instead of the present green. Also, they'll open at the bottom, making it easier for the mailman to empty the box into his bag.

As for traffic lights, Muller-Munk has worked out a design which features set-in lamps which will be visible only to the motorists who are supposed to see them, and not to those on side streets, making it almost impossible to "jump the gun." As an aid to color-blind people, the red light is set in a round frame, while the green light is square.

Muller-Munk hopes to get permission to show his ideas at the New York World's fair and possibly have New York and other cities adopt them.

RICH OIL FIELD
SPOUTS IN U. S.

Kettleman Field Turns
Out Staggering Total
Barrels of Oil

COALINGA, Cal. — The staggering totals of 2,000,000 barrels of oil, 12,000,000 cubic feet of gas and 1,350,000 gallons of natural gasoline represent the tremendous 10-year production record of the Kettleman Hill oil field near here, according to government figures.

The Kettleman field is the second largest oil, gas and gasoline field in the country, from the standpoint of volume of reserves. United States geological survey of fields predict it will have a life span of at least 50 years more.

Area Has 69 Wells
The government, which has already received $16,000,000 in revenue from this field, co-operates with operators in its development. The producing area has 69 wells which have spewed out over 1,000,000 barrels of oil each, with one well producing more than 6,000,000 barrels.

Revenues of the field are divided, with 37½ per cent going to the state for roads and public schools, 52½ per cent to the federal reclamation fund for western irrigation, and 10 per cent to general treasury funds. Federal revenue for oil 10 years has totalled $12,587,077 for oil, $2,803,944 for gas, and $996,237 for gasoline. November, 1937, was the peak month, with a royalty of $295,895.

Production Under Curb
The Kettleman field has had an allowable production of about one-tenth of the state, although it potentially could produce from one-third to one-fifth the total production. The field at one time supplied more than one-half of the gas to the utilities of the state, but new fields have reduced this to 30 or 35 per cent. The conservation of gas energy has resulted in greater oil recovery.

Expensive litigation — including a two-year trial, 25,000 pages of transcript and cost of $1,500,000 to all parties — has marked jurisdiction of the field. The board of directors, appointed by various companies concerned, was upheld in court on reclassification of part of the field. It is expected that more orderly drilling and closer supervision will increase production by 25,000,000 to 500,000,000 barrels, or 25 per cent more than would otherwise be produced.

PATENT ACTIONS ASK 37 MILLION

Manufacturing Company Files New Suits On Infringement

ST. LOUIS—The Gasifier Manufacturing Co., with suits for $37,500,000 damages pending against major automobile and harvester companies for alleged infringement on a patent, is preparing to file actions for $15,000,000 more against other motor manufacturers.

"We've got the automobile companies pretty well covered," Orin M. Hill, attorney for the plaintiff gasifier company, said. "We expect to get around to the airplane and motorboat companies right away."

Hill said that although none of the suits have been docketed for trial, he was satisfied with their progress.

Firm Organized in 1921

The company, according to Fred W. Eckstein, president, was organized in 1921 when a group of St. Louis business men backed a mechanic, Maurice O. Smith of Dallas, Texas, in manufacturing and selling a device to reduce fuel consumption of gasoline motors.

Eckstein related that the firm progressed until 1925 when an attempt was made to expand.

"We were retailing the device at a price of $25 each, but in 1925 we tried to interest the automobile companies instead of selling the gasifier directly to the automobile owner," Eckstein said. "That was a mistake."

"We sent out a few and waited for the results, which came fast, but not in the form we expected. The gasifiers, in various camouflaged forms, began to appear in all types of machines. We served notices of infringement, but did nothing about them."

Closed For 8 Years

Eckstein said the gasifier concern closed in 1928. It was reorganized, however, in 1936.

"We engaged attorneys and prepared for the suits," Eckstein said. "Now the company is back in business, but on a slightly different scale."

Suits are pending against the Ford Motor Co. for $12,500,000; General Motors Corp. for $10,000,000; the International Harvester Co. for $6,000,000; the White Motor Co. for $4,000,000, and the Chrysler Co. for $6,000,000.

Cardinals Gather for Papal Election

Six Cardinals are shown as they arrived at the Lodge of Raffaello, in the Vatican City, after the death of Pope Pius XI. This picture was taken as the princes of the church gathered for election of the new Pope.

Theatre Attractions

The daring exploits of a young westerner in revenge on himself on the cut-throat ranchers who railroaded him to prison and murdered his father are told in "Lawless Valley," which shows tonight and Saturday at the Grand.

The story is laid in the cattle country of Arizona and presents the outdoor star as a victimized young rancher who, with his father, is blamed for robbing a stagecoach. The real culprits subsequently murder the old man to destroy the son's alibi, and in a flagrant miscarriage of justice, the latter is sent to the penitentiary.

Kay Sutton in Lead

Kay Sutton has the feminine lead as the ward of a crooked rancher, who, with his son, is responsible for sending O'Brien to jail for a crime the pair committed. While O'Brien is serving unjust sentence, the girl's scheming guardian endeavors to force her into marriage with his unprincipled son in order to gain control of property she will inherit.

By good behavior, O'Brien is paroled and immediately returns to his native town with revenge in his soul. With the aid of a hobo friend and a loyal rancher, O'Brien desperately seeks evidence to prove the guilt of his enemies in connection with the stage-coach robbery, and the murder of his parent. To frustrate his plans his two enemies and a dishonest sheriff strive to make him break his parole.

Plenty of Drama

How O'Brien manages to save his sweetheart from the distasteful marriage, and at the same time expose the crooked rancher, his son and the sheriff as the actual criminals, provides the dramatic highlights of the exciting story.

In addition to Fred Kohler, Sr., and Fred Kohler, Jr., real-life father and son who ably enact the villainous roles, the cast of "Lawless Valley" also includes Walter Miller, as O'Brien's hobo friend; George MacQuarrie, as the loyal rancher; Lew Kelly, as the comedy cook; and Earl Hodgins as the rascally sheriff.

David Howard directed this production by Bert Gilroy from an original story by W. C. Tuttle, which was adapted to the screen by Oliver Drake.

At the State tonight and Saturday is "The Three Musketeers" featuring Don Ameche, and the three Ritz brothers.

Rothschild in U. S.

Victor Rothschild, third Baron of the distinguished European banking family, arrived in New York from Europe for a brief vacation. He is pictured as he landed.

REDDING, Cal. — Verne Carleton not only believes that there are such things as "poker faces," but that there are also "poker friends." One of the latter induced him to enter a poker game on the inside tip that a third man in the game had $38,000 which they could easily win by playing together. In three hands Carleton lost $3,500. He told police.

MELBOURNE, Australia — Australian track followers are sportsmen in the real sense of the word. Following four days of racing during the annual Melbourne Cup season, unclaimed totalizer dividends amounted to $36,648.

PAROLE BOARD BILL LOOMING

New Reorganization Measure to Be Presented Next Week

COLUMBUS, Feb. 24.—Republicans would gain control of the state parole board, and machinery for paroling inmates of Ohio's penal institutions would be geared for higher speed by a proposed reorganization bill to be offered in the house of representatives next week.
Rep. Henry H. Metcalf (R-Franklin) today put finishing touches on the bill, a substitute for one he previously introduced. The new measure, expected to receive administration support, would come up for a hearing in the house judiciary committee March 7.
The bill would abolish the present four-member board and replace it with a three-member pardon and parole commission. Like its predecessor the measure was aimed at removal of former Gov.
Martin L. Davey's personal secretary, Mrs. Myrna Smith, whom he named to the board before leaving office.
The commission could designate its members to sit alone at hearings, and their findings and recommendations, when approved by the Old Star—New Role Pinza as King Boris

NEW YORK—Ezio Pinza, colorful basso of the Metropolitan Opera Company, faces the most difficult challenge of his career when, for the first time in America, he sings the title role of Mousorgsky's
"Boris Godounoff" on March 7, the role which Chaliapin made his greatest.
Pinza, who has succeeded Chali-apin as opera's greatest basso, declares he will offer a conception of "Boris" all his own. He is pictured here in the jewel-encrusted costume in which he first sang the role in Italy 14 years ago. The crown was given to him by exiled members of the royal Russian family.
Pinza led a varied career as engineer, professional bicycle rider and soldier before making his debut in opera, serving during the World War as a member of the famed Alpini troops in the Italian Alps.
He was brought to America after winning acclaim in Milan's La Scala under Arturo Toscanini.

DEUTSCH RAPS MUNICH PEACE

Fears It Is Only Step Toward Biggest War World Has Seen

of the different states of Europe, pointing out that the one hundred million persons in the smaller nations demand the right to live peacefully, but have had only strife and oppression.

Peace Not Insured

Some thought, and some still think, that the uniting of these small nations under the leadership and dominance of one strong nation would insure peace but the empires which have been set up have fallen. Now license has been granted Hitler to build empire No. 6. "Hitler has been given free entrance to the graveyard of empires," he said.

"A good many people think there are many things wrong with the Versailles treaty and I agree with them, but one justification is that they tried a new way of solving the central European problem," the doctor continued. They gave the nations a chance to work out their problems under democratic rules.

In 1932 a dictator came to power in Germany. Sudetenland was demanded. It did not and never did belong to Germany, but it was soon attached to the Reich. And, he said, Germany will go on pressing for more bountiful lands.

"All the world has heard the tales of Jewish persecution in Nazi Germany. The Jewish population is 700,000 in Germany. The new empire would include 7,000,000. Multiply your human suffering by 10," he said.

Won't Bring Peace

"What of all this, if it will bring peace, you ask? Well, in 1918 the imperial staff of Germany controlled all of the center of Europe but the staff did not desire peace. Instead, it concentrated these immense resources for war in the west and the campaigns of 1918. History may have a knack of repeating itself.

"The Munich treaty has been called a step towards peace. It is not that, but a step towards direct preparation for a bigger war than the world has ever seen," Dr. Deutsch predicted.

"The only difference between 1914 and 1939 is that German methods are now more modern and efficient than in 1914. Unemployment opened the way of Nazism. The political use of German minorities was a method used by Hitler for the infiltration into the smaller countries.

"Another method of German penetration is anti-Semitism. The people are antagonized against each other. A third step is the barter-trade system, with the smaller nations eventually becoming a very small cog in a very big machine."

Criticizes Munich Pact
Dr. Deutsch attacked the Munich pact, somewhat, and said that peace conference was the first in history immediately after which every nation involved doubled its armament.

"Since 1920 the world has seen many steps taken towards disarmament and the guaranteeing of peace. Now we have seen a return to the revival of empires, hatreds, power and the sword.

"Empires are made and kept by force," he warned, and added, "it seems now that the brutal shall inherit the earth."

The speaker said the small nations in Europe face the danger of being conquered and subjected as in 1914 and forced to serve as gun fodder in a powerful German drive to the west. But, war is not inevitable.

"People still have spiritual and moral values," he pointed out, "and the people are fast learning what all religions teach and that our lives are all connected and that what affects one will sooner or later affect all."

"For six months the Czech people held off the most powerful war machine in the world, with a Nazi gun in their face and gas masks by their side. They have not yet given up their fight for freedom and peace."

When Will It Stop?
"The dictators will drive on until the democratic nations have had enough and will say stop! The issue will be whether or not we shall have the right to live our own lives or become the implements of foreign nations and pawns on the chessboard of international diplomacy."

After his talk, Dr. Deutsch held an open forum on questions submitted by the audience. W. L. Hart, president of the Rotary club, presided while Atty. W. Edmund Peters introduced the speaker.

Ruling Issued In Coal Mine Strike

LISBON, Feb. 24.—Judge W. F. Lones this morning granted a temporary restraining order to P. R. Lipp, strip coal mine operator at Rogers, to prevent Mike Mercurie of New Waterford and Mike Wilson of Rogers, named in the action, from blocking the drive at the mine or interfering in any way with operations there.

Lipp, who hauls coal to a Youngstown firm which supplies the Youngstown public schools, charged that yesterday Mercurie and Wilson blocked the mine drive to prevent Lipp's trucks from leaving, as a climax to an argument with Lipp over the price the plaintiff was paying Mercurie for hauling coal.

Chairman Walsh (D-Mass) of the senate naval committee said he believed the Guam proposal was dead. Although there was some talk the administration would attempt to revive it in the senate, Walsh's attitude—shared by other committee-men—might doom such a move.

Meanwhile the Borah-Johnson effort to write a foreign policy statement apparently was headed for innumerable difficulties, due to the wide differences of opinion among critics of the administration's course.

"Any attempt of a minority group of senators to write a foreign policy," said Chairman Pittman (D-Nev) of the foreign relations committee, "is so contrary to our form of representative government that it would be even better to attempt, as futile as it might be, to ascertain universal public opinion."

INVITATION TO RELAYS ISSUED TO 100 SCHOOLS

Cope Prepares for Night Meet Here; Discusses Track Prospects

EDITORS NOTE: This is one of several stories written by Everett (Bud) Dean, senior student at Salem High school, who is combining practical experience with the training received in a journalism course at the High school.

By BUD DEAN
Invitations have been sent to 100 schools to participate in the 10th annual Salem High school Night Relays Saturday, May 6, Frederick Cope, faculty manager and track coach, announced today.

The invitations will be followed by a letter containing last year's results, this year's entry blanks and time schedules for the 17 events, including five relays.

Last year 44 Class A schools participated but Cope believes an entry of this size makes the meet too large for the Salem track. Five out of six of last year's night relay winners finished within the first five schools in the state meet.

Cope will direct the local meet as he has for the past two years. Inquiries have been received from Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and New York. That the night relays are gaining in popularity elsewhere is shown by the fact that Toledo and Wilkes-Barre are holding a nocturnal affair the night before the Salem meet and that Elie Strong Vincent is considering the sponsorship of an open night relay meet in the spring.

Seeks Added Attraction
Cope has been making a determined effort to secure an added attraction for this year's event. He is attempting to get an Olympic star or some other outstanding track star to give an exhibition. Cope explained that it was becoming more difficult to book such an athlete because of many big indoor and outdoor meets and also because of the Olympics in 1940.

Cope believes his team this year will be better than last year, especially for dual meets, but will be weak in the larger meets due to the lack of an outstanding star. Only Bob Clark, who tied for fourth place in the pole vault in the state meet last year, and Joe Morris are counted on for the larger meets.

However, Cope expects his boys to capture the county meet for the fourth consecutive time, and to finish within the first 10 in the night relays.

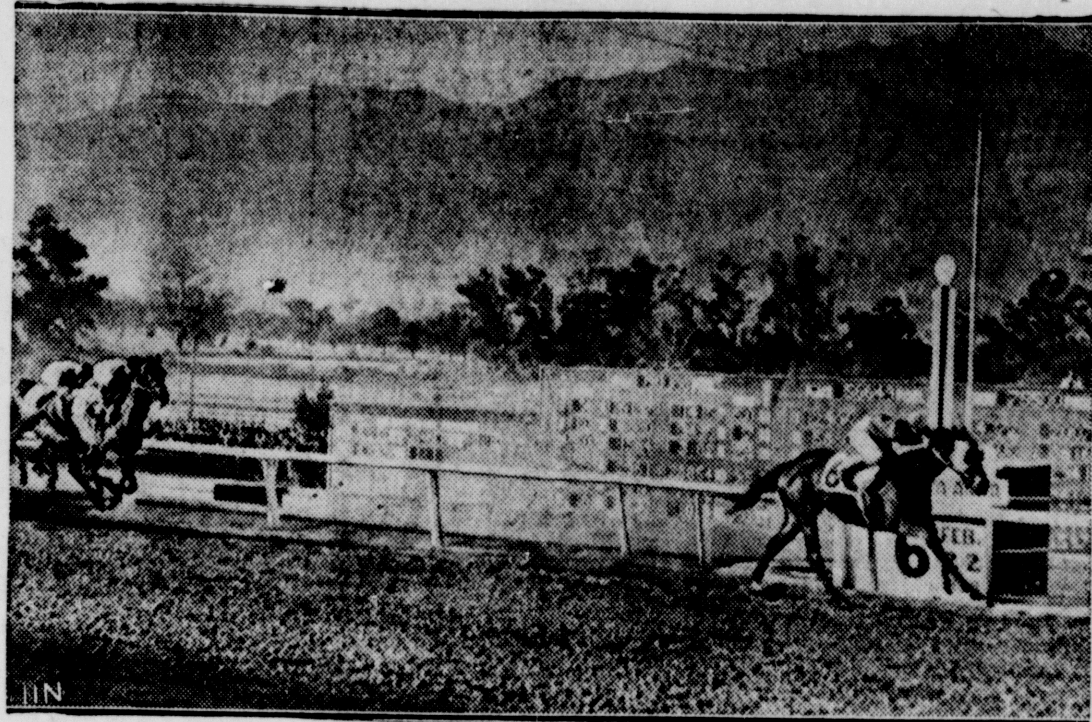

List Lettermen
Cope will build his team around lettermen from last year. They are: Captain, Joe Morris, dashes and hurdles; Frank Stone, dashes; James Armet, quarter miler; John Handick, quarter miler; Amos Dunn, quarter miler and hurdler; Jim Dickey, half mile, and mile; Charles Huddelstone, mile; Bill Schaefer, hurdles and high jump; Bob Clark, pole vault; Junior Turner, high jump and broad jump.

Bob Lutz, distance man of last year, will not participate in track this season, and Clifford Lowry, pole vaulter, has dropped out of school. Cope believes his most serious losses from last year's graduates were Max Lutch and Harold Culler.

Reserve lettermen back this year are Tom Rhodes, pole vault; Stu Hise, broad jump; Elliot Hansell, sprinter. Numerical winners returning are: Bob Scullion, distance; Art Chappell, distance; Walt Bolinger, weights; Reuben Breaud, distance; George Dickey, hurdles; Clarence Werther, weights; Gilmore Coffee, dashes.

Other boys showing possibilities are Melvin and Marvin Wukotich, Vender, Leonard Piersol, and Dick Beck, weights; John Carls, pole, distance; Kenny O'Connell, distance; and Bruce Krepps, hurdles.

GARAGE CAGERS HANDED FOURTH LEAGUE DEFEAT

Shasteen's Spank Whit's Team, 41-26; Baptists Win In Class B

Whit's Garage basketballers suffered their fourth straight Class A league defeat last night as they fell before the Shasteen cagers 41-26 at the Memorial building.

Al Catlos found the hoop for six field goals and seven free throws to pace the victors with 19 points. Bob Lora led the losers with 16 points.

The Shasteen five outscored their opponents in every quarter but the second when both teams gathered 10 markers. The Shasteen lads also enjoyed a good night at the foul line dropping in 13 free throws.

In the only Class B game, the Baptists set down the Methodists "A" 30-23. This was the first defeat for the M. E. five in the round robin tournament. They remain in the running until defeated the second time. It was the second win for the Baptists.

Bob Vickers showed the way for the Baptists with eight points while Snyder and Hammel each tallied seven. Lawrence Weigand led the Methodist quintet with seven.

TONY GALENTO GOES WELL IN WINNING BOUT

Looks Good In Gaining Technical K. O. Over Abe Feldman

By GAYLE TALBOT
MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 24.—In case bold Tony Galento does get that shot at Champion Joe Louis next summer, which now seems assured, the very least he ought to do is put honest Abe Feldman in for about 10 per cent of his end of the purse.

Abe did a lot to help Tony's cause by the sort of fighting he put up here last night before Referee Dave Miller finally had to stop it early in the third round to spare him further punishment and possibly save Galento from a charge of manslaughter.

Bald Abe did his level best to make a fight of it, I'm convinced. If he didn't, then he took a terrible beating to make it look good. The crowd of about 10,000, counting deadheads, would have understood if Feldman had stayed down any one of the three times Tony smashed him to the canvas in the second round. They were yelling to Miller frantically to stop it when Abe sank to his knees from a terrific left to the body after 30 seconds of the third.

To Take Blows
By sticking it so gamely, Feldman at least gave Tony a chance to land a few visible blows. The crowd and the critics saw him hit Feldman, and there was no one to say fake. It was plain that Feldman, an honest, ring-wary second-rater, simply was no match for the Orange round man, who outweighed him some 37 pounds.

Tony gets a little more savage each fight as he sees himself getting nearer to a battle with the champion. He's determined to face Louis, despite my feeble attempts to tell him he's picking on the wrong man.

"Why shouldn't I get a chance at him?" he kept saying last night. "Sharkey and Camera and them other bums got a chance to make some big money, didn't they? I'm no bigger bum than they was. I'll bust Louis open like I done Feldman if I hit him wit' my left."

Bargains are plentiful. The ads. will tell you where.

SALEM CAGERS TO FACE HARD TEST TONIGHT

Quakers Meet One of Top Teams In State In Final Home Game

A final test in preparation for stiff tournament competition ahead will be offered Salem High school's Quakers tonight when they face Struthers Big Red Cagers on local hardwoods.

The game, scheduled to start at 8:30 following a preliminary contest between reserve teams of the two schools, is the last on the Quakers 1938-39 schedule. A capacity crowd is expected to see the final appearance of the Salem lads on their home floor this season.

Next week Coach Herb Brown will send the Quakers into tournament competition in the sectional Class A event at Youngstown East High school gymnasium. Salem will meet Youngstown Woodrow Wilson in its first tournament game at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Tonight's game is expected to provide the Quakers with their stiffest opposition since the Massillon contest about one month ago.

One of the Best
The invading Struthers team ranks as one of the strongest scholastic court aggregations in the state in addition to being the best in the section on the basis of season's record.

The Big Red quintet has won 12 of its 15 games to date, losing only to Alliance, Warren and Campbell Memorial in close contests. Alliance nosed out Struthers, 29-24; Warren squeezed out a 22-20 victory and Campbell edged the Big Red, 35-33.

Struthers victories have been over Sebring, 28-10; Youngstown Chaney, 33-19; Youngstown Ursuline, 43-17; Lowellville, 33-17 and 47-12; Columbiana, 29-23; Youngstown East, 52-26; Niles, 52-27; East Palestine, 38-22; Girard, 40-25; Boardman, 62-29, and Scienceville, 40-26.

Two of the five likely starters for the Big Red, Mike Hepasky and Jack Saunders, played against the Quakers last year when Struthers gained a 27-26 victory.

Repasky, the team's scoring threat, pairs at the forward posts with Gerald Brauer while Saunders holds down the center and pivot position. Walter McDonald and Eugene Lund are the guards.

No Harm Done
Loss of big "Swede" Anderson, the outstanding scholastic athlete in the Youngstown district, at the half years was believed to have hurt the Big Red, but so far the Struthers cagers have displayed no signs of cracking. In fact, the team has not lost a game since Anderson's graduation from school at mid-year.

The Quakers, who will be seeking their 10th victory in addition to attempting to avenge the setback they received at Struthers last year, are expected to take the floor with the same lineup they used against Boardman last Tuesday night when they hung up a 36-20 win.

Coach Brown will probably start Amos Dunlap and Galen Duncan at forwards, Bill Scheffer at center and Glenn McLaughlin and Burton Sutter at guards. If a change is made, it will probably place Les Knepp at a guard post.

The smooth-working Salem reserves, who have been the surprise of the current season, will go after their 14th victory in the preliminary game.

Hehr, Fletcher in Florida
Lou Gehrig and Coach Art Fletcher are hunting in the Florida everglades. If you were surprised when Frank Leahy was named football coach at Boston college, just wait until Frank names his assistants. Rival coaches call Clifford (Doc) Carlson, Pitt basketball mentor, the "Percy Houghton of the cage game."

CHAPTER XXII

"I'll leave Andrews to Finch," Sir Francis decided. "It seems to me at the moment as though someone had followed Fergus down from London. If so, the letters are probably in Paris by now."

"Are you going to tell me what was in those letters, sir?" Matresser asked.

"That's why I begged for an invitation to Sandringham so as to have a bona fide excuse for calling in to see you. One letter concerned your report on Territory Number 7. Theft of that message makes the whole business in which the Foreign Office is concerned extraordinarily difficult."

"It is a record of plain unvarnished facts," Matresser said firmly.

"My dear fellow, we realize that and we are tremendously grateful," Sir Francis declared. "If those facts had leaked out afterwards, provided our great move comes off."

there would have been an uproar. We should have had a red hot press against us. You did what we asked you to do by telling us the simple truth, Matresser, and I won't have a line of your report altered. We shall have to deal with Number Seven separately."

"What about the other letter?" "You will probably smile when I tell you its contents and it will take me the best part of an hour to explain exactly its significance. The letter contains an invitation from a certain person in mid-Europe to spend a fortnight with him at his shooting box in the Metzger Mountains."

"From a stranger?" Matresser asked.

"I don't think it likely that you have ever met him," he is a very charming person, however, and although he is not English himself, he appears to have a great affection for our race. You will take with you the usual outfit—a rifle and I suppose a couple of shot-guns, with cartridges from number two to seven. Let it look as much like a genuine sporting expedition as possible."

"And when I arrive with this arsenal?"

Sir Francis was silent for several moments.

"I shall have to wander for a few minutes," he said, "from the immediate subject of our discussion. You have shown yourself capable of helping us to such an extent that I am going to take you still further into our confidence."

Matresser pulled up his chair closer to his visitor's. He leaned forward and listened intently.

"The fact of it is," Sir Francis began, "that neither you nor anyone else outside the Cabinet knows exactly how serious the present situation is. Even the press dare not acknowledge it. Our ambassadors keep us on the jump the whole of the time."

"Where's the danger, sir?" Matresser asked.

"Germany, of course. She is the strongest and best prepared nation in Europe and she knows it. The curious thing about it is that the man who is chiefly responsible for her strength, the man who has hammered militarism into the country, defied all Europe and broken every covenant, is the man who today desires peace."

"That seems rather surprising," Matresser observed quietly.

"I am not guessing," Sir Francis assured him. "I am telling you the absolute truth.... I was in Berlin myself, as you know, a short time ago. I had two interviews with the person whom I will call the Dictator. He acknowledged frankly that he was losing his hold upon the country, and he was losing it because, having weighed up all the possibilities, he has come to the conclusion that what Germany needs is peace."

"Why?"

"You have asked a question," the Foreign Secretary replied, "which I believe I am the only man in the world who could answer. The Dictator gave himself away at our last interview. I know what it is he is really fearing."

"A return to monarchy?"

"Precisely. There are at least three of the present generation of Hohenzollerns who are lusty, ambitious fellows and they have been living before their public in the one hope that some day the country will swing back and they might be chosen to take Hellstern's place. The students are all with them and curiously enough, the army, fashioned and developed by the Dictator, is becoming more and more royalist every day. Not one of those three likely candidates for the throne of the new Germany can show himself in the streets today without being saluted and applauded."

"And France?"

"Our alliance with France has become almost a fetish of honor with us all," Sir Francis said gravely. "And frankly, Matresser, we may have to face at any moment a terrible decision. There's not anyone in the Cabinet or out of it who could pretend that France has treated this country well since the war. She only once made a gesture of being our ally at Geneva and in the matter of sanctions she did her best to heap all the onus of making a decision upon us and us alone. She never for a single moment played the honest game. You know as well as I do, Matresser, that there is not a more unpopular country in France today than England. They don't trust us. They don't believe in us. In the press they call us a nation of hypocrites. We have been stupid often enough but we have not deserved such an attitude on their part. That is one of the things we are up against, Matresser. It boils itself down to this. Are we to risk everything that this nation stands for by fighting Germany for the sake of France?"

"You are being extraordinarily candid with me, Sir Francis," Matresser observed.

"We have more faith in you than you have in yourself," was the blunt reply. "Now that we have begun, let us go through with it. There's Italy. Well, my own opinion is that Hellstern's turn-about-face is entirely due to the disaster which has befallen that country. Matresser, I am backed upon what he considered a perfectly safe and glorious war in Abyssinia, a hollow victory, and then came—Spain...."

"Today, Dictator Matresser is facing doom as a tyrant whose authority is falling away from him. Hellstern looks across the Alps and shudders. The only thing that could restore Matresser's popularity would be if he were able to join any combination of nations strong enough to make war against this country."

"Meanwhile, the Crown Prince of Italy, who once was utterly neglected, becomes more and more popular every day. Only last week he was received with cheers at the opening of the Opera while Matresser took his place alone and in silence. In Austria—well, the people don't even trouble to conceal the fact that the only thing they are praying for now is a Hapsburg back upon the ancient throne."

"We have to face the music," Sir Francis said. "I am not guessing, but exactly what policy to embrace, which will enable us to retain our honorable place among the nations and yet keep England safe, is a dire problem. What we fear most is being dragged into a war with France as our ally against Italy. Germany and probably Austria. Germany is waiting with her hand already upon the sword. France, a shuddering mass of nerves suspecting our every action, is terrified every moment of being what she calls betrayed by perfidious Britain."

"You have taken note of the other possible complications?" Matresser asked.

"We have gambled upon your report," the minister replied. "We studied it carefully and without a dissentient voice we pinned our faith to it. We have accepted it as an axiom that in the face of a possible closer fusion between Japan and China, Russia will never move a single man westwards to the help of France even if she were otherwise inclined to do so. Your Chinese work was wonderful, Matresser. Without official recognition you seem to have won the confidence of all the men who stand for the new China and everything you predicted is justifying itself. It is, as you pointed out, a perfectly logical outcome of the spread of western civilization among the yellow-skinned races that they should draw closer to one another and present a united front. We are with you also in all that you say about America, although we have been able, without your report, to arrive at definite conclusions. America will never intervene again in European quarrels. It is not to be asked of or expected from the United States."

Matresser rose from his chair and paced the room thoughtfully for several minutes.

"You have not taken me so far into your confidence, Sir Francis, I am sure," he said, "without some definite reason. You know that I am not a diplomat."

"Really?"

"Really. I am more of an adventurer with the knack of keeping my wits about me and facing danger when it is there. But does all this mean you have another job for me?"

"Would you go on another mission, more dangerous, even more brimful of responsibility?"

"I cannot fancy myself refusing," was the brief reply.

"This one would be a matter of a few weeks only."

"But how far should I have to travel?" Matresser asked.

"Just to a certain shooting lodge on the eastern frontier of Germany, the same expedition I have spoken of before. There will be negotiations there in which you will take part."

"Could that be better done from the Berlin Embassy?"

Sir Francis smiled deprecatingly.

Billions for Arms

Sir John Simon

Declaring England had reached a scale of armaments production never before touched by that nation, Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, moved a resolution in parliament increasing the government's borrowing powers for defense to four billion dollars.

"My dear fellow," he remonstrated, "the German espionage system is getting to be one of the finest in the world. It is today very nearly as good as our own. I forget what our staff is at the Embassy, but there is not a single member, down to the typists employed by the various secretaries, who is not watched. The head of the police there could tell you where our second and third secretaries, for instance, dined and supped every night for the last three months."

"Should I have to carry any papers?"

"Not a line. The whole affair would be unofficial."

"I imagine my mission would be connected in some way with my last two years' work."

"With a portion of it—yes," Sir Francis replied.

"Well, I'm your man," Matresser agreed. "I shall at least have the advantage of knowing what I am talking about, although I think myself you are rating me too high."

"And I'm quite sure that we are not," was the emphatic reply. "The very fact that you are right outside the diplomatic world is a huge advantage. I cannot think of a single soul whom I dare send on this business except you, Matresser."

"I hope I will deserve your confidence, sir. You would not like to give me a hint, I suppose?"

"I would rather not," Sir Francis confessed. "It may come to nothing and if it does I would rather possess the knowledge that no human being had ever heard of the suggestion as having come from me."

"That's quite enough, sir," Matresser assured him.

"In any case," Sir Francis went on, "let us know about the matter until the last moment the better. When that last moment arrives, you will act."

"I have given my word, sir," Matresser reminded him.

The Foreign Secretary drew a sigh of immense relief and knocked out the ashes from his pipe. (To Be Continued) into it and was caught by the jaws of the trap.

The heavy jaws of the trap were strong for the Indian to force open and he was imprisoned for four hours in sub-zero weather before other trapper released him.

DRILLS DECRIED IN ARITHMETIC

Waste of Time to Study
Course If Tot Does
Not Enjoy It

CLEVELAND—It is a waste of time for children to study arithmetic if they do not understand it, believes Dr. R. L. Morton of Ohio university, chairman of the National Council Committee on Arithmetic.

"Old-time mathematic teachers might throw up their hands in horror at this statement," he said, "but it is true, nevertheless."

"Our committee, which was appointed in 1937 to study the teaching and content of arithmetic, takes vigorous exception to the drill theory of arithmetic, because it neglects the social aims of arithmetic."

"Morton said that 'social aims' were easy to 'tie in' with arithmetic, and that the combination provided interest which was lacking in the completely abstract science of mathematics."

Lessons Brought Home
In Cleveland, for example," he said, "arithmetic is tied in with the Community Fund, the Red Cross drives, and other civic activities by children who learn how to add and subtract by counting receipts of donations from their own classroom."

This method of enlivening the science need not be confined to young children, Morton said.

Other children compute light, gas, and water bills," he said, "and measure materials used in cooking receipts to learn fractions and measures."

Dr. Morton's committee united in condemning the drill theory of instruction, and said that most teachers are opposed to it, but that it is still in wide use in the schools.

"Practice But No Drill"

"In the teaching of mathematics, there is a place for practice," he said, "but not for mere drill. Even practice should not be used except when the material to be practiced is understood thoroughly."

The committee asserted in its report that arithmetic has two phases, the mathematical and the social. Both are essential, and one without the other is incomplete. Neither by itself embodies proper instruction, and neither alone will develop in pupils the arithmetic they should learn.

"Arithmetic taught in a vacuum," the report said, "hardly can be expected to prove useful as a means to happier and more intelligent social participation."

"The content of lessons should be based on the social usefulness of arithmetic, and the wise teacher will help her pupils develop the disposition to use the arithmetic which they have learned."

PASADENA, Cal. — Vitamin A deficiency is one of the things that makes some automobile drivers a menace on the highway. Dr. Roy C. Clegg told the College Syntonic Optometry here. It causes blindness when bright lights hit the eyes.
